ABOUT THE SYMPOSIUM

World Intellectual Property Day is celebrated annually on 26 April. The theme of World Intellectual Property Day 2023 is “Women and IP: Accelerating Innovation and Creativity”

In celebration of World IP Day, Law Program at School of Business and Law and SSIP, Navrachana University organises one-day event in encouraging innovation and creativity to mark the Day. For 2023, the theme will explore how women are driving positive change in the IP world through their Innovation and Creativity.

Technical advancements in the present era have made all business areas technology driven. It is for this reason that in the current global economic scenario, the only mantra for growth in the business world seems to be an efficient investment in the knowledge economy, wherein an effective Patent portfolio creation and its management plays a crucial role and becomes an essential adjunct to individual inventor and core business of a corporate.

The symposium is more focused on hands-on training, aimed towards engaging students, academicians, industry professionals and practitioners in a discussion on the patents drafting, filing and protection regime. The purpose of conducting the event is primarily to introduce participants to the basics of patent search, drafting and the filing and enforcement procedure at national and international level.

This would help the participants in understanding the kind of research that can be converted in to patent, prior art search, relevance of specification drafting and claim construction, filing and enforcement procedure as well. The symposium is spread across three technical sessions by our eminent Speakers specialised in Intellectual Property Laws and having immense experience in the field of Intellectual Property.

The platform will also help in creating awareness and understanding of IP and how it can support the ambitions and goals of inventors, creators and entrepreneurs. Bring together inspiring speakers and stimulate insightful discussions.
