Idea	Making a portable automated kwatha kettle with inbuilt sensors , in which kwatha would be added in the form of tea bag , water would be added and kettle would be turned on , after that the sensors would automatically measure volume of liquid added and start heating and there would be sensors which will sense how much kwatha is reduced by heating , as soon as it gets reduced 1/8th part then the kettle would automatically cut off and buzzer will ring with light , showing the kwatha is prepared and an SMS or notification would also be seen on user's phone stating kwatha is prepared , kettle would also have a sieve so it can be directly sieved and poured into any vessel and be used.

Idea	IDEA My project is related to the "Automatic Basti Maker" which makes proper & Authentic basti. As we know that Basti which is recognised as Ardha chikitsa in Ayurveda so it is our foremost step that the Basti which would be going to make have the Best Quality in it. So I have an idea which helps to make basti in Very easy and also in short time. This project had Programmed system which is connected to a display and there is Automatic Khalwa Yantra (Mortar-pestle) and also different-different chambers/containers which are filled by different dravyas like Madhu, Saindhav, Sneha, kalka, kwatha. We have to use different containers for each dravya category for making a different types of basti for different patients. For example, Sneha container should have different sub or small container within it for different types of sneha like Go ghee, panch tikta ghee etc" A small pipe is connected to the bottom of all the container and the tube's other end is connected to the upper margin of Khalwa. All the containers would be having it's own pipe, so there will not be any Obstruction or Mixing of different substances via their passage. These all things are programmed & connected to each other and we can control or select a Specific amount (Quantity) of any dravya to which we want to be used in preparing basti. The Khalwa will rotate & Mix the basti dravya at specific RPM according to our requirement. At last, the Basti would be prepared & filtered and collect in a clean container with specific Temperature.
