A Report on

Two Days Workshop on

"Coding the Web"

(September 21-22,2023)

Event Overview:

Gandhinagar University organized a two day workshop on "Coding the Web" on September 21-22, 2023. The workshop was organized for BTech Sem 3 students by Gandhinagar Institute of Technology's Computer Engineering and Information Technology Departments under the guidance of Dr. K N Sheth (Director, GIT) and Dr. Nimisha Patel (HOD-CE/IT). The workshop was conducted by Mrs Ekta Shah and Mr Yash Shah of Technishal.. The workshop was coordinated by Mr Mukesh Parmar and Ms Ruchika Patel.

Objective:

The Fundamentals of Web Design Workshop is designed to provide students with a comprehensive understanding of HTML, CSS, and Bootstrap the core technologies used in modern web development. This hands-on workshop will equip participants with the necessary skills to create visually appealing, responsive, and user-friendly websites. The workshop will cover HTML, CSS, bootstrap and making a web page using these concepts and uploading the webpage created by students on GitHub.

Program Overview:

The workshop was attended by 50 students. The workshop was for two days, and each day had two sessions. On September 21, 2023, at A-216, the session began with the introduction of the expert at 10:00 a.m. and ended at 2:30 p.m.. On the first day of the workshop, the expert provided in-depth explanations of HTML basics. Following an expert's explanation of CSS styling in the second session, students engaged in the practical application of the job they were assigned. During the session, the expert also answered queries from the students. Introduction to Bootstrap was covered by an expert on the second day of the program, and the second session covered GitHub Concepts.. At the conclusion of the workshop, three students were awarded awards by experts for constructing excellent resumes and posting them to GitHub with elegant and polished styling.
