Empowering Educators: Faculty Visit to ASHINE

Event Date: 05.07.2024

About the event:

On July 5, 2024, faculty members from Government Engineering College, Valsad, visited ASHINE. The initiative aimed to enrich the faculties' knowledge about innovative environments and the operational dynamics of incubation centers.

During the visit, the faculty members gained valuable insights into the incubation processes, the various entrepreneurial support mechanisms in place, and the overall ecosystem that fosters startup growth and development.

The visit also included a comprehensive tour of ASHINE's facilities and infrastructure. The faculty members explored various resources available to startups, including co-working spaces, meeting rooms, conference facilities, prototyping facilities, and collaborative work environments. They gained an understanding of how these resources are instrumental in supporting startups and innovators in their early stages of development.

The visit highlighted the significance of providing robust support systems for budding entrepreneurs and the role educational institutions can play in fostering a culture of innovation.
