

SSIP CELL

REPORT ON STARTUP CHARCHA

Venue: C-2, Government Commerce College, Gandhinagar

Date: 9th October, 2024

Time: 9:00 AM to 10:30 AM

Under the SSIP Cell, Startup Charcha Organized by Dr. Dhaval Nakum, the SSIP Coordinator and Dr. Ronak Patel, the Innovation Club Coordinator, the session was aimed at fostering entrepreneurial curiosity and providing valuable insights to students about the startup ecosystem. The event saw enthusiastic participation from 60 students of Semester 1, eager to learn and explore the dynamic world of startups.

During the session, students were introduced to the foundational principles of entrepreneurship and innovation. Dr. Patel highlighted the success stories of a few startups based in Gandhinagar and Ahmedabad, showcasing their growth journey, challenges, and achievements. These real-life examples served as a source of inspiration, demonstrating how innovative ideas coupled with determination can create significant impact.

The session also provided a platform for interactive discussions, where students actively engaged with the concepts of ideation, problem-solving, and market exploration. The focus on local startups gave the attendees a practical perspective on the opportunities and resources available in their vicinity, encouraging them to think critically about pursuing entrepreneurial ventures.

Overall, "Startup Charcha" proved to be an enriching experience for the students, igniting their interest in the entrepreneurial field and motivating them to explore the possibilities of innovation in their academic and professional lives. The initiative was highly appreciated and set a benchmark for similar events in the future.
