Report on Workshop

“Prototype Design and Process Design through Innovators”

A workshop titled “Prototype Design and Process Design through Innovators” was successfully conducted on 7th February 2026, from 9:30 a.m. to 1:00 p.m., at Government Arts College, Shahera. The session was designed to expose students to innovative thinking, practical design methodologies, and real-world applications of prototype and process design.

The resource person delivered an insightful session with a strong practical orientation toward innovation and design thinking. Through real-life examples, innovative ideas, and an interactive presentation style, the workshop actively engaged students and encouraged creative participation. The hands-on approach helped students better understand the concepts of prototype development and process optimization, making the session both informative and inspiring.

Objective of the Workshop

The primary objective of the workshop was to foster innovation, creativity, and practical design thinking among students. It aimed to enhance their understanding of prototype design and process design while encouraging a problem-solving mindset applicable to academic learning and future professional challenges.

Outcome of the Workshop

The workshop successfully achieved its intended objectives. Students gained valuable insights into innovation-driven design practices and the importance of prototyping in solving real-world problems. Participants found the session highly informative, motivating, and relevant to their academic growth and future career aspirations. The interactive nature of the workshop inspired students to think creatively, apply innovative ideas, and approach problems with a structured and practical mindset.

Overall, the workshop proved to be a meaningful and enriching learning experience for all participants.
