Summary of Event:

The Department of Computer Engineering, CKPCET, organised an expert talk on “Recent Trends in Artificial Intelligence (AI)” under the Student Startup and Innovation Policy (SSIP), to encourage an entrepreneurial and innovation-driven mindset among students. The speaker, Mr. Smit Shah, introduced students to Generative AI, Large Language Models, prompt engineering and AI-powered applications. He showed how these technologies are opening new startup and career opportunities in software development, data science, cybersecurity, healthcare, education and business. Students were encouraged to see AI as a tool that enhances productivity, creativity and decision-making rather than a threat to jobs. They were also urged to build AI literacy, problem-solving skills, ethical awareness and a habit of continuous learning. In line with SSIP’s goal of nurturing student innovators, the session motivated participants to turn ideas into AI-based projects, hackathon entries, research work, internships and startups, while using AI responsibly with attention to data privacy, bias and verification of information.
